

Farm Notes.

In operating a dairy the food is returned in the milk, butter, growth of stock and manure. The gradual increase of fertility of the land from dairying is the source of wealth. Even if the dairyman made no real profit otherwise, he would become richer, as the crops would be larger and the farm more valuable.

The age of a cow has much to do with her value as a milker. A cow with her first calf never milks as well as with her third or fourth one and for a dairy animal, as a rule, is unprofitable. For this reason care should be taken in buying cows for the dairy to obtain those with their second or third calves, not with their first one.

No other thing on the farm so thoroughly marks the progress of agriculture as the rapidly increasing use of red clover. The twofold benefits of clover are so obviously manifested to every farmer that the increase of its use is not surprising. Its wonderful yield as a forage crop makes it one of the most desirable to raise, whether to be fed green or cured in the shape of rowan.—Prairie Farmer.

The decayed branches of old trees should be removed. Their unsightliness is the least of their evil.

Tuberous bulbs showing buds at the end of the month may be lifted carefully and made to flower in the house later on.

A first-class salt should be pure white in color, clean, comparatively dry, uniform in grain, and quite soluble in water.

Rye if sown now will grow, and, as it is hardy, will furnish early green food before the grass makes its appearance in the spring.

If every farmer who cuts down a tree will plant a young one in its place the result will be a constant supply of timber and fuel as well as a profit.

Sheep will eat more, be more contented and thrive better on a new than on an old range. Frequent change of range for them is important at this season of the year.

This is the season for hatching out bantams if you desire them small in size. The later the better, provided they can be raised, as the object should be to dwarf them in size as much as possible.

It is a rule always to plow hill-side land crossways, never straight up and down, even when flat enough for so doing, as such lands frequently wash from heavy rains. The best crops to grow on gravelly hill-sides are grapes.

While planting the tree do not try to rattle the dirt among the roots by shaking the tree up and down, for this draws the fine, hair-like roots out of place, but does not push them back; it holds them up and gets them all out of shape.

There is a large field open for those who will make a specialty of flax. It is a quick growing crop, is as easily grown as wheat, and improved machinery has made it more easily fitted for market. It gives a profit in both straw and seed.

If the peach trees have not been trimmed it is best to defer so doing until early in the spring before the buds begin to appear. A peach tree is often greatly benefited and renewed by judicious trimming, and trees would last much longer if given some care in that respect.

Married a Board of Trade Man.

A young woman with tightly pressed lips and a gleaming eye sat upright in one of the seats of a west-bound train. She appeared to be mad, and the other passengers eyed her curiously. Presently a near-sighted man came along, sat down beside her, and, after awhile began with:

"Got far to go?"

"Yes too far," snapped the young woman with the gleaming eyes. But the near-sighted man returned to the attack with:

"Been up to Chicago?"

"Yes, I've been up to Chicago."

"Visiting friends, I suppose?"

"No not visiting friends, I suppose. On business."

"Married?"

"Yes I'm married."

"And where is your husband?"

"Chicago."

"What's his business?"

"His business is none of your business, you impertinent dude. But when he came down to our place, putting on style and sparking me, he said he was a Board-of-Trade man. Yesterday I went up to Chicago and called at his office."

"Then he's a Board-of-Trade man is he?"

"Yes, he's one of the janitors, I'd like to skin him, the wretch. But what is this to you I'd like to know?"

"Ah, excuse me; here is my card. Should be happy to serve you. I'm a lawyer on Clark St, and my specialty is divorces. Laughing gas administered and alimony extracted with—Chicago Herald.

FORAKER'S SENSATION.

Proof Positive and to the Point Against His Skinning Sensation.

Special to the Cincinnati Sun

Columbus O., Oct. 4.—Another damper has been thrown upon the attempts of the Foraker gang to get up a penitentiary sensation. Dr. Obetz, the demonstrator of anatomy at Stirling Medical College, made oath that the body of John McSlater was received at the college from the Pen in an unutilized condition. Dr. Medbery, demonstrator of the Columbus college, says he doesn't know about McCoy's body and cannot say anything either way. Slater and McCoy are the only two convicts whom Gov. Foraker says were skinned. It has been shown that Slater was not skinned, and now comes the following, by mail which was received yesterday:

State of Missouri.—County, ss: Wesley Gallogly, of lawful age, being first duly sworn according to law deposes and says that during the year 1885 he was connected with the Columbus Medical College of Columbus, O.; that on the 22 day of Oct., 1885, he received the body of Joseph McCoy, a convict of the Ohio Penitentiary, from Isaac G. Peetry, the warden of that institution, on an order from Josiah Medbery, M. D. Prof. of anatomy of the Columbus Medical College, and receipted for the same; and deponent further says that the said body was unutilized and in good condition, and that no part of the skin had been removed at the time of its delivery at said college, and further deponent saith not.

WESLEY GALLOGLY, M. D.

Sworn to before me by the said Wesley Gallogly, and by him signed in my presence this 30th day of September, A. D. 1886.

Witness my hand and official seal at office in DeWitt, Mo., on day aforesaid.

Every time you have a settle of ashes scatter them around the trunks of the fruit trees. If you will begin at the end of a row and give each tree a dressing as fast as the ashes are made it will require but a short time to give all the trees the benefit of ashes, while the labor of so doing will not be noticed.

Asches spread over the beds of strawberries at the rate of 100 bu per acre will increase the quantity, improve the quality and intensify the color. They may be sown broadcast at any time.
